MARSHAL JOFFRE IN FIGHT AGAINST DEATH

Hero of Marne Reported in Critical Condition; Surgical Operation Necessary.

BULLETIN

PARIS, Dec. 27—The newspaper Le Temps stated tonight that Marshal Joffre's right leg had been amputated.

• • •

By The Associated Press

LOUVECIENNES, France, Dec. 27—"Papa" Joffre, grand old man of the army of France, is fighting the greatest battle of his life—not against an invading army this time, but against death.

All France was shocked this morning when it learned from an official bulletin that the great soldier who turned back the German army in the first battle of the Marne was dangerously ill.

Marshal Joffre

His countrymen had suspected that the marshal of France was ill because he was late in starting on his usual winter vacation in the south. Their fears were lulled by denials from the general's family, but this morning the old hero's doctors announced that his condition was grave.

He is suffering from inflammation of the arteries in the legs, an affliction which began several months ago and which suddenly became worse in the night. The doctors' bulletin described his condition as "disquieting."

Arteritis is the name the doctors gave the marshal's illness. This case takes the form of a swelling of the arterial membrane and it is centered in the legs.

It was so serious, a bulletin disclosed, that a surgical operation was performed last Saturday by Professor Leriche.

There were no details regarding the nature of the operation but it was believed to have taken the form of bleeding as in the case of Raymond Poincare when he was attacked by a vascular spasm recently.

Throughout his illness, it was revealed, Marshal Joffre has persistently refused to let any word of his serious condition reach his friends.

Marshal Joffre, whose full name is Joseph Jacques Cesaire Joffre, will be 79 years old Jan. 12 next. In the course of his extended military career he has successfully led campaigns in Asia, Africa and Europe.

His greatest victory, perhaps, was on Sept. 6, when he threw the Germans back on the Aisne in the memorable battle of the Marne. Late in December, 1916, he was created a marshal of France.

In the spring of 1917 he visited the United States, and was hailed everywhere with great affection as "Papa" Joffre, and "the hero of the Marne."

CAREY BANKER DROPS DEAD

Byron Ogg, 65, Dies Suddenly at Filling Station in Columbus.

IS HEART ATTACK VICTIM

Was President of Financial Institution and Telephone Company.

Special To The Star

CAREY, O., Dec. 27—Byron Ogg, 65, president of the First National bank here and head of the Carey Electric Telephone Co., dropped dead in Columbus Friday afternoon.

Ogg died suddenly from a heart attack. He stopped at a filling station in Columbus and as he stepped from his machine he fell dead. He was in Columbus on business.

Funeral services will be held in the home here Monday at 2 p. m. in charge of Rev. Paul R. Clouser. Burial will be made in Spring Grove cemetery.

He was born near Carey Nov. 7, 1865, the only child of William and Keziah Ogg. He was married to Delia E. Culler April 28, 1892. The following children, Fordyce of Columbus and William at home, survive.

He was a member of Christ Lutheran church and a thirty-second degree Mason.

CHARGES LOBBYING COMMITTEE OVER U.S.

Chairman Johnson of House Veterans Group Asserts Organization Racketeering.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—Existence of a "lobbying racket", worked throughout the country by agitators for cash payments of veterans' compensation certificates, was charged today by Chairman Johnson of the House Veterans committee.

The South Dakota Republican said "commercialized solicitation of citizens' signatures on petitions to congress", was being extensively practiced.

"Here is a plain case of racketeering", he added. "It is prospering like several previously exposed schemes, on American sympathy with former soldiers."

Johnson cited about 1,000 petitions bearing about 50 names each.

"The organization that got these out required a cash tribute of 10 cents from every person who signed", he said.

"Applicants accepting, pay $75 for 150 petitions, or 50 cents each, with the understanding that they circulate the petitions charging 10 cents for every signature secured."

Representative Patman, Democrat, Texas, who received this group of petitions, and forwarded them to the committee, said he regarded them as lobbying, but added:

"The fact that a citizen is willing to pay to sign, indicates genuine interest in the legislation."

ROB GROCERY SAFE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 27—Three holdup men who invaded the food terminal district at the start of business today escaped with $1,250 cash. The trio followed Leo Wyner, head of the terminal wholesale grocery, into his store and forced him to open his safe.

K. OF P. LODGEMEN TO ASSEMBLE HERE

State and District Officers To Attend County Installation of Officers.

The largest assemblage of Knights of Pythias of Marion county in many years will be for a county meeting Jan. 6 at the Knights of Pythias hall here, County Deputy Wallace Linn outlined details of the meeting before Marion Lodge No. 402, last night.

The county meeting will also mark the first time in years that all officers in the various lodges of the county have been installed at one time. Grand Chancellor N. E. Kidd of Marietta and Elmer Zimmerman, district deputy, have been invited to attend the meeting. Lodge deputies will hold chair offices during the installation service.

Officers of the eight lodges in the county will be installed at 9 p. m. on Tuesday, Jan. 6. The lodge hall will be opened at 7:30 p. m. for the conferring of the Page rank on a class of candidates.

The February county meeting to be held at Green Camp on the nineteenth, will mark the anniversary of the founding of the order 67 years ago.

Marion Lodge No. 402 will have a candidate for initiation at the county meeting in January. Plans were made for the lodge to confer the esquire rank and knight rank at meetings to be held Jan. 9 and 16. The drill team of No. 402 will hold a practice Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the lodge hall.

IN LEGAL TANGLE

What To Do with Ohio Boy Slayer Puzzles Authorities.

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 27—Johnny Woods, 14, Belmont county slayer, today was the center of legal tangles puzzling several departments of the state government after the refusal of authorities at the Lancaster Boys' Industrial School to accept him.

At Oberlin, O., where Welfare Director Hal H. Griswold was reached, Griswold indicated that as soon as he was notified officially of the tangle his department would probably seek to get the boy taken in at one of the state feeble-minded institutions.

A. K. Harsch, superintendent at Lancaster, has taken the boy in temporarily, with the announcement that he could not accept him officially. He said the law governing juvenile correctional institutions prevented him from accepting any prisoner under a definite sentence.

MAN INDICTED; WIFE IS FREED

Wyandot County Grand Jury Ignores Charges Against Mrs. Cunningham.

HELD IN 2 BURGLARIES

Nine True Bills Returned Out of 12 Cases Considered in Court.

Special To The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Dec. 27—While charges against his wife were ignored, Allen Cunningham was indicted by a Wyandot county grand jury here yesterday on two charges of burglary.

Cunningham and his wife were jointly charged with having burglarized a filling station and a hardware store here several weeks ago.

Mrs. Cunningham, a former Marion woman whose parents live near Cardington was arrested the night of the attempted filling station burglary. Her husband escaped when a night patrolman allegedly surprised them in the act. She confessed to the filling station and hardware burglaries.

Two weeks ago Cunningham was arrested in Toledo while working at a police station. He confessed to the burglaries and has since been held in jail with his wife under bond.

The Cunningham indictment was one of nine true bills returned by the grand jury here yesterday after 12 cases had been considered. Two indictments were secret. Others made public were against Noble Larick non support, John Billock, burglary, Jack H. Williams, drawing a check without credit; Harpster Howell, non support, Rightly Dykes and Verlin Vaughn, larceny.

POLITICAL TROUBLE STIRS MONTE CARLO

Small Principality of Monaco Up in Arms Over Edict of Prince.

By International News Service

MONTE CARLO, MONACO, Dec. 27—Political strife disrupted the usual calm of Monaco for the second time within a week today as the subjects of Prince Louis bitterly protested his dissolution of both legislative bodies and assumption of dictatorship over the tiny principality.

The prince's stern decree, which dissolved the National and Municipal council and abrogated the rights of franchise and elective representation granted citizens 20 years ago, was followed by mass meetings vociferous with protests. Similar scenes occurred only a few days ago, when upon Prince Louis' return from Paris there were various demonstrations by those who objected to his protracted absences from Monte Carlo.

As on the previous occasion, Monaco's entire army of approximately 100 men again has been mobilized to prevent trouble. Close observers here were inclined to believe, however, that Prince Louis subscribed to his drastic action on the advice and assurance of support by the French foreign office rather than on the strength of his own military resources. France and the principality are closely interlinked.

NORRIS OPENS DRIVE FOR NEW ELECTION PLAN

Announces That He Will Advocate Abolition of Electoral College.

REJECTS 3RD PARTY OFFER

Hopes To Open Way To Place Independent in Race for Presidency.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—A new election reform campaign—one he expected to extend beyond his life span—was taken up by Senator Norris of Nebraska today even as he turned his back upon a third party movement and a possible Presidential candidacy.

The veteran independent Republican announced he would start with the next congress to agitate for abolition of the electoral college. This would require amending the constitution. His objective, he said, was to make it possible for an independent to run for President without party organization.

He made his plan known in refusing the suggestion of Dr. John Dewey, head of the League for Independent Political Action, that he leave Republican ranks to lead a third party movement. To form one more faction under present electoral provisions with any hope of success, said Norris, would be futile.

Not After Presidency, He Says

"I'm not a candidate for President," he told newspapermen last evening. "I'll not be a candidate for President. I'll probably be dead before this reform can be brought about."

His utterance did not end third party talk for 1932, however. Such names as Borah of Idaho and Pinchot of Pennsylvania continue to be mentioned as Presidential candidates for such a movement.

Responding to a question, however, Norris said if the Democratic party should nominate a real progressive in 1932, many of the western Republican independents would support him, just as the Nebraskans voted in 1928 for Alfred E. Smith. He did not commit himself as to 1932, but indicated strongly he might repeat his bolt.

Norris in the last few days has been denounced as a "demagogue"

ARMY AIR DIVISION TO GATHER IN OHIO

Biggest Fighting Unit To Assemble at Wright Field in May.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—An air division, the largest unit of aerial fighting strength, will, for the first time in U. S. army aviation history, be assembled at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, next May, it was learned at the war department today.

More than 600 officers, 500 enlisted men and 584 airplanes will be drawn from fields all over the country to make up this peacetime armada of the skies. Even this vast assembly, the department explained, will represent but a fraction of a war strength air division. Such a unit would include 4,000 officers, 30,000 enlisted men and more than 2,200 airplanes.

The concentration next May will be preparatory to the defense maneuvers on the Atlantic coast, which were announced by the department some time ago. From Wright field the division will move, as one unit, to New York City, where the exercises will begin.

During recent years, the department explained, there have been numerous concentrations of air forces, but none so large as the one now planned.

TO CUT RATES

Northwestern Railroad To Inaugurate Two Cents a Mile Fare.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 27—Plans to inaugurate a passenger rate of two cents a mile on four divisions as an experiment to see if the lowered fare will successfully combat motor bus competition, were made public today by H. E. Pierpont, vice president in charge of traffic for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad.

The new rate, he said, would be put into effect January 1, on divisions in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa. The present rate is three and six-tenths cents a mile.

None of the divisions is on a main line, Pierpont said however, that if the experiment succeeded it was probable that it would be extended eventually to include the main lines.

"It is primarily a service to gain the local traffic which the motor bus has caused railroads everywhere to lose", Pierpont said.

$3,000 THEFT TRIAL OPENS

Charles Seckel, 67, Charged with Taking Life Savings of Woman.

VICTIM GIVES TESTIMONY

Ten Women on Jury Hearing Case in Common Pleas Court Here.

With Mrs. Amanda Smith, 79, whose life savings he is alleged to have stolen, as the principal witness for the prosecution, Charles Seckel, 67, of Caledonia, today was being tried before a jury in common pleas court on a charge of grand larceny.

Mrs. Smith this morning told in the crowded courtroom how she accumulated $3,000 during her lifetime and how she discovered the loss of her money last September.

The aged woman related that the money, wrapped in rolls of $100, was kept in a black bag inside a small satchel, which she kept on the stairway of her home.

Helped at Seckel Home

On Thursday, Sept. 11, she went to the Seckel home to aid Mrs Seckel in canning and when she returned that night the satchel was missing, she said. She found the bolt on the kitchen door broken, she told the jury.

The satchel was found the next day in a cemetery near her home and all the money, with the exception of one roll of $100 which the thief overlooked, was gone. Deeds, other legal papers and receipts were left untouched, according to Mrs. Smith's story told on the stand.

Policemen on Stand

Mrs. Smith's examination this morning was made by Prosecuting Attorney Alfred Donithen. Attorney W. P. Moloney for the defense was to begin cross-examination at 1 p. m. when the case was to be resumed after a recess for lunch.

Acting Chief of Police Ira Schrock and Patrolman E. C. Macken preceded Mrs Smith as witnesses when the case opened. They identified a roll of bills on the exhibit table as money they had taken from Seckel when he was arrested in connection with the case. Mrs. Smith later identified the money as her own when she testified. All of the bills were of the large size, none of the newer small currency being among the bills.

Moloney was assisted on the defense by Attorney J. D. Williamson. The jury which heard the case consisted mostly of women, only two men being in the group.

Murders Three Persons in Fit of Insanity

By The Associated Press

BOONEVILLE, Ind., Dec. 27—Shirley McNeely, 35, farmer of Tennyson, near here, late yesterday hammered to death his mother, his stepfather and his uncle, apparently during a fit of insanity. McNeely surrendered late last night to Sheriff George Ward.

The man the sheriff said, told him he had intended to kill his wife, her mother, and a half-brother, Arthur Bradley, but that his "mind began to clear up" after the triple slaying. McNeely said he "didn't know why" he killed the trio.

Praise for Kin

(Will Rogers Special)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 27—Kin Hubbard is dead. To us folks that attempt to write a little humor, his death is just like Edison's would be to the world of invention. No man in our generation was in a mile of him. And I am so glad that I didn't wait for him to go to send flowers.

I have said it from the stage and in print for 20 years. My dressing room, when I play Indianapolis, won't be the same without Kin sitting in there. I loved his work and I loved him.

Just think, just two lines a day, yet he expressed more original philosophy in 'em than all the rest of the paper combined. What a kick Twain and all that old gang will get out of Kin.

Yours,

Will Rogers

HOOVER, COOLIDGE EXPECTED HERE FOR EARLY 1931 EVENT

Nation's Chief Announces Willingness To Come Here for Ceremony; Indicates Former Executive Will Also Be Present.

PLANS TO BE MADE AFTER DATE IS SET

PRESIDENT HERBERT HOOVER and possibly former President Calvin Coolidge will come here early in 1931 to dedicate the memorial to the late President Harding. The exact date is to depend upon the convenience of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Coolidge and upon the state of executive affairs at Washington.

HOOVER

COOLIDGE

This was revealed today in a story copyrighted by the Washington Star and released for exclusive use in Brush-Moore Newspapers.

The story written by Frederic William Wile of the Washington Star editorial staff and political analyst, relates that President Hoover's associates are urging him to make the trip early rather than late in 1931 and he is understood to be favorable to such suggestions.

"It is Mr. Hoover's expectation," the copyrighted story continued, "that Mr. Coolidge will deliver an address at the dedication exercises, too. It is represented at the White House that political conditions in Ohio are the main reason for the President not having sooner expressed a readiness to make the dedicatory address in Marion."

Setting a date for dedication of the memorial rests entirely with President Hoover.

Associated Press dispatches this morning, following an interview at the White House, say President Hoover will participate in the dedication if he is invited.

Committee to Cooperate

Assurance that the Harding Memorial association executive committee is ready to cooperate in every possible way with President Hoover in arranging for dedication of the memorial and that immediate steps toward that end will be taken as soon as Mr. Hoover sets a date, was voiced by Hoke Donithen, secretary of the association, in a statement made at noon today.

Donithen said that an invitation sent to the President in April, 1929, still stands and that he does not think another will be necessary.

Marion members of the executive committee, including Donithen, voiced their pleasure over the report of President Hoover's decision and declared themselves as whole-heartedly in favor of proceeding with the dedication plans. It was also indicated that a meeting of the committee would probably be held as soon as official notice of Mr. Hoover's plans are received.

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, member of the executive committee, sent this message to the President today: "Thanks for offer to dedicate Harding Memorial. It is splendid and gives me great personal satisfaction." Dr. Sawyer stated that it was sent as a personal expression and not in the capacity of a committee member.

Calls Flood Office

Donithen's office was flooded with telephone calls and communications from newspapers in every part of the nation this morning for an expression of the attitude of the association regarding the White House announcement.

Newspaper dispatches concerning the Washington announcement were the first indication Donithen has had that the President is willing to dedicate the memorial, Donithen said.

The Harding memorial, Grecian in architecture and constructed entirely of Georgia Marble, stands in the center of a 10-acre memorial park adjoining Marion cemetery. Erection of the imposing, circular memorial and landscaping of the park cost approximately $800,000.

Bodies of President and Mrs Harding were interred two and one-half years ago in two concrete sarcophagi in a myrtle-covered plot in the center of the memorial.

REVERSAL ASKED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 27—The Ohio supreme court has been asked by Luther Swaim, Clinton county prosecutor, to reverse a decision of the court of appeals granting a new trial to Harry Moon, former Clark township trustee, who was convicted of fraud in connection with the handling of highway funds.

HENRY NAMED FIRE MARSHAL

Appointment of Marietta Man Announced by Director of Commerce.

SUCCEEDS RAY R. GILL

Former Employe of Department; Slated To Take Office Jan. 12.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 27—The appointment of Frank C. Henry of Marietta as state fire marshal under Governor-elect George White, was announced today by Theodore H. Tangeman, the new director of commerce.

Henry will succeed Ray R. Gill of Wooster, and will take over the office Jan. 12. He had been recommended to Tangeman by Governor White.

The appointee is the first state fire marshal to assume that post with the benefit of previous experience. He served as a field man in the department under Governor Cox and was first deputy marshal under Governor Donahey.

Henry has been otherwise connected with Democratic politics. During the administration of President Wilson he was appointed postmaster at Marietta upon the recommendation of White, who then was congressman from the Fifteenth district. He served on the Democratic state central and executive committees. Henry retired from the fire marshal's office two years ago at the beginning of the Cooper administration. He has since been managing the Winton hotel here.

BROOKHART ATTACKS PARTY LEADERSHIP

Iowa Senator Asserts Nation's Interests Being Put Secondary.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—Democratic leaders have not adopted a program, said Senator Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, today, which will induce him to vote with them in organizing the next senate.

Brookhart had offered to vote with the Democrats if they would cooperate to put an end to what he called "Mellonism." The offer made after the elections, attracted considerable interest because of the close line-up in the next senate. He, and other Republicans or Farmer-Laborite, could give control of the senate to the Democrats.

Brookhart said today the Democratic party apparently has "the same sort of leadership as the Republican party." He added he did not propose to "jump out of the frying pan into the fire."

Brookhart said the much talked of cooperation between the Republican and Democratic parties, "is simply bi-partisan Wall street rule."

"Party regularity is the same proposition in both parties. It places party above country and I think it is treason to the country. Party policy should always be subordinated to national policy."

"The Smokers' Rebellion"

One of the many funny anecdotes in Irving's "Knickerbocker's History of New York" tells of one Wilhelmus Kreft, Dutch governor of New York, who, thinking that the people talked politics too much and that smoking was the direct cause of it, issued an order prohibiting smoking entirely.

Immediately the smokers, with long pipes and plenty of tobacco, gathered before the governor's house, and the "smokers' rebellion" was soon "in full blast." The rebels won. Literally they "smoked the governor out."

So, too, do Marion Star Want Ads "smoke out" buyers for most any offer made through them. They "smoke out" offers to fill every need or want. So, as you smoke your favorite pipe, make it a habit to read these ads daily. Use them, too, because....

NOTICE OF PROPOSED VACATION OF A PUBLIC ROAD

Notice is hereby given that M. Leffler and other freeholders, [illegible] more than twelve (12) in number and residing in the vicinity of the proposed improvement, have filed their petition with the Board of County Commissioners of Marion County, Ohio praying for the vacation of the following described public road or so much thereof as may be for the best interests of the Community served:

"Beginning at State Route No. [illegible] about one-half (½) mile south of LaRue, Ohio, extending west a distance one-fourth (¼) mile, thence [illegible] about the same distance to Lee and Mt. Victory Pike, and known as Dodd Road, and located in Bowling Green Township."

The Commissioners of said Marion County have fixed the fifteenth (15th) day of January, 1931, at [illegible] (1) o'clock P. M. as the time for view of the proposed improvement and have fixed the Thirty-first (31st) day of January, 1931, at ten (10) o'clock A. A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

SATURDAY. I don't know how grown up people know when one year ends and the other begins, or which day is which, because all the days look alike to me. Anyhow today was the last Saturday we are going to have this year, and after tomorrow my aunt won't wash me any more until next year. And that would be all right with me, even if it was as long as it sounds. The Lost Bag of Tripe got around with the bunch again today. Which is the only time he has been let come out and play, except Christmas, since he put the powder in our oven. My grandfather was up when we went in the house, and I let him come in with me, because the girls were already there, and I didn't want him to freeze to death—and my grandfather was razzing him about putting powder in the oven, and said to him, "Only baking powder should go in ovens." I said, "And gunpowder in guns." And Youniss said, "And face powder on faces," and Feeble said, "And insect powder on insects," and my grandfather said to Maggie, "They haven't left you any kind of powder," and Feeble said, "I should have left her the insect powder." Then we all laughed, except Maggie.

When I had fed my face and the girls had et some pancakes we got our slays and started for the pond and just as we went out the front gate Mealy Gutwaltz came along, and she wanted to know if it was true about Mrs Wagmore giving us boats, and when we said it was she said she was going to ask for hers So we went to the door with her, and a colored man opened it and we went in, and Mrs Wagmore came in and asted us to set down we sot down on the edges of things and Mealy asted for her and Feeble said for Mrs Wagmore to give her a hankerchief too, but Mealy wiped her nose on her sleeve and told Feeble to mind her own business Mrs Wagmore told the colored man to get the car out to take her to town and pretty soon away she went with Mealy with her We were sliding and having a good time on the hill when some one whooped, and a strange little girl was waving to us from the top of the hill, and then she came running down and it was Mealy She said she had new everythings from thes kin out, and started to show us, but Feeble pushed one of her feet against the other, and both went out from under her Feeble and her had a fight, and she forgot all about everything but her nose for a while so she didn't try to show us what she had on underneath and more Mrs Wagmore don't care who she gives things to. But I am glad Mealy got everything She don't have very much She looks as good as any other girl when she is dressed up

GRAIN VALUES HIT NEW LOWS

Announcement of New Corn Outlets Fails To Check Price Slide.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Dec 27—All grains good to new low price records today despite announcement that [illegible] for corn had been created by the AAA [illegible] action against [illegible] Stop loss selling and [illegible] aggressive buying [illegible] an early general setback of [illegible] Opening 1 cent off to ¼ cent up wheat fell to 80 cents for [illegible] delivery a new low since 1896 but subsequently rallied Corn started at ¾ cent decline to an equal advance, then receded, but later scored gains

Over sold conditions existed both in corn and wheat when some traders attempted to switch to the buying side of the market on declines Price rallies also were promoted by statements that action of Canadian line elevators in agreeing to pay the growers' pool basis for wheat was regarded as practically establishing a guaranteed price A sharp fading off in the volume of primary corn receipts was likewise a stimulus to buyers

Corn arrivals here were but 8 cars compared with 125 a week ago and 293 last year All primary centers received only 709,000 bushels as against 1,090,000 on the corresponding day last week and 1,553,000 a year ago With the larger corn consuming months ahead and with corn on a profitable feeding basis a period of decidedly small receipts was predicted by traders Oats duplicated the course of other cereals

Provisions were responsive to changes in grain

Warns College Girls To Be Careful of Diet

By International News Service

BOSTON—If the average college girl desires a clear head for class work she should not eat banana splits or griddle cakes smothered with maple syrup according to Mrs Gladys E Jones, director of Boston university's institute of home making, speaking before a group of girl students in advising the proper diet for the woman college student

The modern college girl rushing from class to class and engaged in a whirl of social activities after school hours leads as strenuous a life as any business man and should choose her diet with care, declared Mrs Jones

A glass of milk is the best foundation for the daily luncheon for a student but milk in itself make a substantial meal she declared for the busy college girl with limited means a 10 cent bowl of crowder pea soup and baked apple is ideal

Mrs Jones declared the best motto for the student is food is cheaper than a doctor

FAMOUS SONG WRITER DEAD

"The King of Tin Pan Alley," Charles K. Harris, whose sentimental ballad, 'After the Ball,' was sung by millions of persons and which won him great renown, died recently in New York. Many were the melodies he gave to America of the nineties, but none ever approached the success of that early effort which was inspired by a lovers' quarrel at a ball in Chicago. Harris was a "self made" man whose first instrument was a tin can banjo.

France's Gold Reserve Soars to Record Mark

Reaches Highest Point in History, Weekly Statement Shows; France and U. S. Have Almost Corner on World's Supply.

By United Press

PARIS Dec 27 The gold reserves of the Bank of France reached the highest figure in its history this week when the weekly statement of the bank showed the total bullion in the vaults was 83,850,424 francs an increase of 383,690,438 over the previous week in spite of two holidays

England and Germany were the unwilling Santa Clauses since the new receipts represent heavy drains from those countries Since the first of the year, and despite British protests France has been steadily withdrawing gold from England and Germany until the vaults of the state bank are gorged with sterling bullion

With the increase France possesses well over $2,000,000,000 in yellow metal, which represents nearly 20 per cent of the world's total gold for monetary purposes Between them France and the United States have almost a corner on the world's gold since their joint holding is nearly 60 per cent of the world's total

British economists have been accusing France of bad faith in continuing its gold policy, placing blame for the world business depression at the feet of France and the United States for allegedly hoarding gold at a time when the world's production of bullion is not sufficient to meet the needs of international trade. Officials of the Bank of France retort that the flow of gold toward France is the result of financial maxims beyond the control of governments

The Bank of France says the problem is out of its control and will continue to remain so unless French investors immediately invest large sums abroad The government before Andre Tardieu's overthrow, was preparing measures for the encouragement of French investments in foreign securities which would start some of France's gold flowing in the other direction The legislation was halted by the political crisis and the problem seems no nearer solution.

SCIENCE HOPES TO AID JOBLESS

Societies Will Attempt Solution of Problem They Helped To Create.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 27 — Science is going to see what can be done to remedy the unemployment problem it helped create.

The displacement of labor by technological developments, unemployment and the employment of labor will be threshed out at meetings of social science and economics societies here next week in connection with the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The association for labor legislation will open the discussions Monday with consideration of federal aid in labor legislation and an address on "Hazards to Local Government" by J. E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers. Monday night the labor association will meet with the American Economic Association to talk over industrial changes and unemployment.

The statistician's job — that of measuring unemployment — will be taken up by the American Statistical Association Tuesday. "Immediate problems in unemployment legislation" will be dealt with by the American Sociological Society, the Economics and Labor Legislation associations and the American Science Association. Among the speakers will be Senator Robert F. Sagner, of New York, who will tell his views on "unemployment — a national issue."

The farmers social promblems also will be considered by the American Farm Economics Association and the Statistical Association Tuesday.

AGED MAN DIES

K. A. ALBRECHT

K. A. ALBRECHT, 87, CLAIMED BY DEATH

Funeral Services To Be Held at Salem Evangelical Church Monday.

Karl August Albrecht, 87, for more than 50 years a resident of Marion, died today at 4:40 a. m. at his home at 425 South Vine street. Death was due to infirmities of age.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 3 p. m. at the home with Rev. Paul H. Bourquin, pastor of Salem Evangelical church, officiating. Interment will be made in the Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the home at any time Sunday and Monday.

Mr. Albrecht was born in Germany and was the son of Henry and Katherine Albrecht. Shortly after his marriage to Miss Wilhelmina Wadel in that country in 1867, he came to America, going to relatives in Minnesota where they spent a short time. They later came to Marion where Mr. Albrecht, who followed the occupation of a baker found work at his trade and also as a gardner. He then went to work with the Huber Manufacturing Co., where he was employed for nearly a quarter of a century. Mr. and Mrs. Albrecht celebrated their sixty-third wedding anniversary Sept. 30 of this year. Mr. Albrecht was affiliated with the Salem Evangelical church.

Surviving with the widow are three children, Mrs. Alfred Horn of St. James street, William Albrecht of Belmont street, and Herman Albrecht of Gurley avenue. Three children, Mrs. Adam Ploch, Mrs. Harry Lenhardt and Lewis Albrecht are deceased. Ten grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren also survive.

AGED WAR VETERAN DIES IN HOLLYWOOD

"Billy the Scout," Former Film Actor, Passes Away at 103.

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 27 — William H. "Billy the Scout," Taylor, 103-year-old veteran of the Indian wars and the confederate army, and for 25 years one of the film colony's most colorful members, died of old age today.

Taylor was born in 1827 in that part of old Mexico which later became Texas, and lived through one of the country's most stirring periods of development.

In 1856 he joined the army and fought wandering Indian tribes on the prairies. With the outbreak of the Civil war he enlisted in the 78th Confederate Virginia regiment. At the close of the war he again joined the United States army. He served under General Nelson A. Miles in the campaign against Sitting Bull and was a scout for General Custer. He spent 20 years fighting Indians.

Taylor retired and came to California 34 years ago. He entered motion pictures in 1910, playing in western two-reelers. Until his 102nd birthday he gained a living as a white-haired Indian fighter in the films.

During his last illness, which attendants described as "simply old age," Taylor was cared for by his friends of the motion picture colony.

Violent Forces of Nature Take Heavy Toll in Year

Killing Heat and Cold Bring Extensive Losses; Areas of Mississippi and Great Lakes Hardest Hit; Tornadoes Leave Destruction in Path.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 27—The destroying forces of nature in 1930 struck hardest at the broad valley of the Mississippi and Great Lakes.

Killing heat and cold waves battered the midwest tier of states, claiming many human lives. The nation's worst drouth seared the land. Crop and property losses approximated a billion dollars. Livestock succumbed to lack of water and green pastures. Fires crackled across thirsty timber lands in upper Michigan and Wisconsin.

One hundred and twenty persons were killed in tornadoes and windstorms that streaked sporadically northward from Texas to Minnesota. Three were drowned in floods. Lake Michigan swallowed 10 lives in two ship disasters.

In Winter's Grip

The year was but two weeks old when King Cold blew down from the northland tundra. The whole nation shivered, even Dixie, but the midwest and northwest tingled most. Thermometers skidded down to 45 below on January 22, in Hatfield, Wis.; readings of 35 and 40 below were common. Fifteen deaths from exposure were reported. Luckily for communication lines, there was little snow.

Freak rains flooded southern Indiana and Illinois. The banks of the Wabash were awash before feeder streams could freeze over. Dozens of families were left homeless in weather 20 degrees below. Planes dropped bags of food and clothing to marooned settlements. One man was drowned. Army engineers placed the damage at nearly $7,000,000.

With the first week of spring came Chicago's greatest snowstorm. For two days—March 25 and 26—the sky was solid white. The fall averaged 19.2 inches and piled into man-high drifts over all the city. Hundreds of thousands of grownups and children were snowbound from offices and schools.

April, May and June were unseasonably hot and dry months—the precursor of a disastrous summer. The nation first awoke to the seriousness of the drouth with the heat wave of July 18 and 19.

The valley states simmered. For three weeks the air boiled. Wells and streams dried up. Towns shipped in their water; farmers hauled it for miles to save livestock. Pastures burned up. The department of agriculture reported an 800,000,000-bushel loss to the corn crop. Late wheat was seriously damaged. Truck farmers suffered.

Old Sol reached his zenith on Aug. 4. Four towns in Kansas roasted at 114. Nebraska reported 113. Over southern Indiana and Illinois and in Missouri the thermometer stood above 110 for more than a week. A farmer near Centralia, Ill., reported that eggs hatched after a brood hen left her nest.

Tornadoes howled frequently over the area. There were 22 cyclonic disturbances in Kansas alone, greatest number on record. Wisconsin had 14. Twenty-three persons were killed in upset buildings at Bethany, Okla.; more than 40 dead was the Texas tornado toll. Minnesota, Missouri and Nebraska were windswept.

Late in November zero zipped down again from the north country. Again the whole nation suffered, the midwest most. Blizzards dissipated an unseasonably late warmth. Many northwest communities were cut off by heavy snows.

The first snow was on Nov. 24—a blizzard. This, to the superstitious, meant 24 blizzards during the winter.

Warns That Gangsters Are Smart, Not Fools

By International News Service

CHICAGO—Scarface Al Capone was painted as a political machine and a crime wave rolled into one when Municipal Judge John H. Lyle, arch foe of gangdom, recently addressed the City club here.

Judge Lyle picked Capone as the outstanding example of the type of man he is fighting. He said:

"Capone is a very potent and powerful factor in Chicago, and one to be reckoned with. He is not to be underestimated. He is a man of rare ability, of brilliant mind—a ruthless, cruel and vicious influence in the community.

"I am not without hope that conditions can be remedied. Not only Capone, but Terry Druggan, Bugs Moran and others must be regarded as smart fellows instead of fools. We must realize that as long as they are permitted to operate, there will always be gang assassinations in Chicago."

Judge Lyle advocated a school in which judges and police chiefs would be instructed how to deal with the crime situation.

ZEDEKIAH DAWSON CLAIMED BY DEATH

Retired Wyandot County Farmer Dies After Two-Year Illness.

Zedekiah Dawson, 77, died yesterday at 6:30 p. m. at his home at 838 Bennett street after an illness of two years. Heart failure caused the death of the retired farmer. For many years he lived near Upper Sandusky before coming to Marion to make his home.

Surviving with his widow, Mrs. Ada Rizor Dawson, to whom he was married Feb. 19, 1901 in Marseilles township, Wyandot county, are the following children: Henry Dawson of 790 Merkle avenue, Mrs. George Rutherford of 838 Cherry street, Lester Dawson of Marion R. F. D. No. 3, Emmett Dawson of 838 Bennett street and Russell Dawson and Galen Dawson of Harpster, R. F. D. No. 2. Mrs. Pearl Clark of Flos avenue is a step-daughter.

Mr. Dawson was born Feb. 4, 1853, in Ross county to Thomas and Arilda Alfred Dawson. He was the last of a family of eight children, four brothers and three sisters having preceded him in death.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 1 p. m. at the home and at 2 p. m. at the Marseilles M. E. church. Rev. W. C. Bowman, pastor of Second Pilgrim Holiness church, will officiate. Burial will be made in the Brownstown cemetery. The body will be removed to the home late this afternoon from the C. E. Curtis Co. mortuary on East Center street.

Two Ohio Cities To Get New Theaters

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 27—Two modern motion picture theaters one in Hamilton and the other in Middletown, are to be erected in the near future by the Midham corporation, it was announced here today.

Work on both theaters, which will cost a total of $1,100,000, is expected to be started soon, with a view to alleviating unemployment.

Why You Wear A Hat-band

By Schaffner-Queen Co.

Have you ever stopped to consider, sir, why you wear a hat-band? Isn't it a coincidence that hat-bands are so common—and that, nine times out of ten, they are black?

They are the survival of the "tiri-pipe," or long tippet, draped around hoods worn by men, in England, about three hundred years ago. The color was usually black, to represent mourning—which was at that time worn for months, and even years!

Later, the tippet was reduced to a simple black band. Thus an ostentatious "trapping of woe" was replaced by a conservative and practical accessory. Mourning—and all other funeral observances—are now tempered with common sense.

The progressive funeral director of today disparages the accentuation of gloom. He bends every effort toward lightening the burden of sorrow, rather than parading its mournful aspect.

This is the ninth of a series of editorial advertisements appearing in this paper each Saturday.

Tibbett to Sing as Star of NBC Bill on Sunday

LAWRENCE TIBBETT, premier American baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company as star of the Atwater Kent Radio Hour, Sunday at 9 15 p. m. will sing two songs that have been specially requested. The demand for these songs, Tibbett believes shows a discriminating taste by American music lovers and reveals their appreciation of fine music.

The first number will be the classic "Song of the Flea" from Goethe's "Faust," set to music by the Russian composer Moussorgsky. The second is Jerome Kern's "Ol' Man River," from that composer's setting for Edna Ferber's story "The Show Boat."

The first song was made especially famous in this country by the Russian basso, Chaliapin, but was sung in a foreign language. "Ol' Man River," a sonorous, solemn negro spiritual by Kern, has become one of Tibbett's favorite concert pieces because of the opportunity it gives for special dramatic interpretation.

County Sending Wards to State Held Liable for Cost

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O Dec 27—When children who are inmates of county homes are committed by the juvenile court of the county in which the home is located to the state institution for feeble-minded they must be cared for by the county committing them to the state institution Attorney General Bettman ruled today in an opinion to state bureau of accounting

The question arose as to whether Stark or Columbiana county should care for a child whose legal residence was in Columbiana county an inmate of the Stark county home and committed from there to the state institution for feeble-minded The ruling holds Stark county responsible for the child care

Spanish War Veterans, Auxiliary To Install

Arrangements were made for a joint installation with members of Betsy Ross Auxiliary, at the meeting of Marion Camp No. 30, United Spanish War Veterans last night at the armory. The installation will be preceded by a baked ham supper at the Legion dugout Jan. 9.

Richard M Miller, Thomas Glaze and Carson B Shetterly were named committee to take charge of arrangements for the installation and supper. The next regular meeting will be Jan. 23.

Personal tax assessments in Cook county (Chicago) totaled $704,000,000 in 1918 and approximately $400,000,000 ten years ago.

BEGINS HIS CAREER IN POLITICS AT 68

Connecticut Governor-Elect To Take Up Official Duties in January.

(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service)

NEW HAVEN Conn Dec 27—Born on the recent capture of the American ballot box a Connecticut Yankee with a brilliant career as a scholar behind him will embark on a political future at 68 years of age when the band plays him into the office of governor of Connecticut next January.

Wilbur Lucius Cross, dean emeritus of the Yale graduate school knocked the veteran New England politicians for a non academic loop in a state where there had not been a Democratic governor for two decades, Cross walked into office by 5,465 plurality over his distinguished Republican opponent, Lieut Governor Ernest E Rogers.

Cross walked in alone, adding to the amazement of his political opponents for the rest of the Republican ticket swept through without much difficulty.

Incidentally walking is the main diversion of the eminent author editor and anecdotalist, as he pointed out in an exclusive interview today with International News Service. He walks the one-and-one half miles from his home to his office at the Yale Review and reverse as regularly as a postman, generally duplicating the trip for luncheon.

A personal prohibitionist, a political anti-prohibitionist, a modernationalist in all things but love of work and good conversation, Professor Cross is in buoyant health at 68.

"Age is a question of biology," is the way he puts it. "Whether a man is young or old at 50 (or 68) depends upon his inherited constitution and the life he has lived."

Thus dismissing the possible obstacle of age there is nothing to prevent him from being stalwart national political timber except his own acquiescence, according to friends of the governor-elect.

MARKETS ACTIVE

Christmas Dinners Give Merchants a Boost Here.

This week's activity in retail markets witnessed one of the most successful Christmas trading seasons in years, according to grocers.

A contributing factor to the volume of business was the refusal of grocers to "hike" prices several cents for the Christmas season. With prices normal, and some slightly below normal, Marionites heaped dinner tables with plenty of food Thursday.

Grocers are now laying in new supplies of fruits, vegetables and other produce in anticipation of New Year business.

Oysters may be purchased at 70 to 80 cents a quart. California tomatoes increased five cents a pound this week, now selling at 25 cents a pound.

A sweet potato of the Porto Rican yam variety weighing 11¼ pounds was grown this season near Hearne, Tex.

INDUSTRIAL MISHAPS ON DECREASE HERE

Eighty-Five Accidents Reported Among Workmen in November.

Industrial accidents in Marion county during November showed a decrease from the October figure, according to statistics kept by the division of safety and hygiene of the state industrial commission.

Marion county had 85 accidents during the month, none of them fatal, as compared to 132 accidents, one of which was fatal, in October. Total time loss in the 85 accidents was 917 days. One of the accidents caused permanent disability, 13 resulted in seven days' lost time and nine others in less than seven days of lost [illegible] total of 62 cases caused [illegible] time.

The coal mining disaster at Millfield, Athens county, in which 82 lives were lost prevented a normal decrease in the fatality rate for industries throughout the state in November, the commission statistics show.

Most Any Big Business Man Could Run Our Country Fine, Will Says, By Eliminating Political Mess

European Countries Look Bad After Fall of Several Dictators.

BY WILL ROGERS

WELL all I know is just what I read in the Papers. Spain blowing up the way it did broke in for a lot of news. I was over there messing around in Spain about four years ago. Had a long chat with that Primo Rivera who was then Dictating for the Country. He "Dictated" me a long special message as to what he was trying to do with the Country and I used it in the Saturday Evening Post just as he gave it to me. He is the fellow that while the Ambassador and I and our Commercial Attache was in his office talking to him, way he reached down in his office drawer and dragged out some of the best wine that was supposed to be. Oh Lord knows how old, he said it was. It was one of the best official touches of hospitality I run onto while over there. He looked like he was doing a pretty good job with the Country. But No, they must get rid of him, and they have never looked like anything since.

Now this King I also met and he seemed mighty able, and a good fellow. But Boy when they turn against you all you have ever done dont mean a thing. You can say what you please about "Dictators" but when he is a good man its the best form of Government there is. Its just like a business that's run by one good man, the whole trouble with it is, you never know what will happen when the "Dictator" is dead or thrown out. Any one of our big men could take this country and run it fine, if he just dident have to mess with any Political machine, or a lot of red tape.

Survival Unlikely

Now you take Mussolini. Lots of 'em knock him, and say that's a terrible form of Government. But you wait till he passes out and see what happens to that Country. Still he told me on that same trip that he was getting his system so well organized that it would carry on after his death. But I doubt that, for there is no man or whole mess of men that could carry on with all that he is doing. Now he absolutely is doing what he thinks is best for his Country, and he has never even by his severest Critics been accused of doing anything for gain for himself. In fact he is a poor man. You know those fellows they got an awful lot of pride, and they want to go down as a big man, and he is really a big help to that Country. Course every Country thinks they need a different kind of Government. We think we must have Democracy and we get it too, right in the neck sometimes. But as bad as we are we seem to get by better than anybody else, outside of Switzerland.

There must be a smart run little Country, they fight all around em, and all they do is just turn their necks to see which side they are fighting on. They sell to all sides, house and feed all sides, and still wind up without getting into it.

More Puzzling Than Women

Since I got started in on all this foreign mess, which dont know any more about than you do, you know come to think of it nobody knows anything about any Country not even his own. The smartest Statesmen are the worst fooled when anything comes up right quick. I think a Country is harder to understand than a Woman. There really aint anywhere you can put your hand on a Country. Its heart is not at its Capitol as some think. Its not in its biggest Citys. Its not in the Country. All at once some little something happens, and you hear what the Country has done, and nobody knows where it was done from or really who instigated. Its a great kick to sit and hear somebody say, "Well I lived in France for years, I know what France will do. I know the heart of the real France." Well the poor fellow is not purposely lying. He really thinks he does. Or somebody will sit and tell you what the Englishman will do under certain conditions. Nobody knows what anybody will do. Every day brings new conditions, new ideas, new alignments. Politicians dont make up peoples minds like they used too. Pretty near every old Bird you met is thinking for himself. This Radio, and more Newspapers, and Movie weeklies, and all that have made one fellow think he is just as smart as the other one. He dont want anybody coming along telling him what he ought to think.

The Russian is studying up some devilment.

Now they say France is just getting along better than anybody. Still after the war everybody that thought they knew France predicted that there was no way for them to come out of it. When we was all a-buying stock, and waiting till the next day to sell it at a Profit not even asking what it paid if anything, why France was working. We was speculating off each other. We dident see how in the World anything could ever be lower in price than it was then. We was the smart Guys. "What a Sucker people are to work when they can get this easy dough." That was our slogan.

Now we are bundling the Gold back to France and they are where we would have been if we hadent gone "Cuckoo."

Bad Times For Good Men

England is having their trouble for they always had a bunch that would never work, they was just bread not to work. Their Labor Government is having tough sledding, almost as bad as our efficiency Government is. It sure is a bad time for a man to get ambitious and want to get into Politics. There has never been a time when Public office was at such a low ebb, and maby not on account of the man in there as it is just general conditions. Sometimes its just a case of a good man in at a bad time. Its like sending the First String in after the game is too far gone to do any good, there is nothing you can do but just try and keep the score down, thats the way with a good man being elected to office nowadays. Its just a case of try and relieve what little misery he can.

We got to get some other kind of distribution of money. The rich never had as much, and the poor as little. But we better not do anything about it till we see how the Russians turn out. They been pretty quiet the last couple of weeks. They are studying up some devilment to pull on the World. A Russian just loves misery, and he wants to get as many in on it as he can. He wants to share it among friends as well as foes.

Well the football season is over now, so maby we can start some foolishment of some kind. Hoover and the Senate have made up, so we will just sit around and wait for some other Calamity to happen.

RUTH CHATTERTON COMING TO PALACE IN LATEST PICTURE

"The Right To Love" To Open Here Sunday for Two Days.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

THE FIRST lady of the screen, Ruth Chatterton, is presenting her public a new Chatterton in "The Right To Love," coming to the Palace Sunday and Monday. She gives a tripie characterization in this picture, which if she is successful in doing and we can't doubt but that she will be, will heap more laurels on her blond head.

Chatterton is one of the few women from the stage whose acting in talking pictures leaves us nil for adjectives. And we're glad to see Paul Lukas' name in the featured male lead. He was the man who loved her but lost her to Clive Brook in "Anybody's Woman."

The picture is an adaption of the Susan Glaspell book, "Brook Evans," the story of the conflict between love and traditional inbred puritanism through three generations.

Miss Chatterton plays the roles of a young girl of 1890, the same character as a mother in 1907 and the part of a modern daughter. Many dramatic scenes between mother and daughter are handled by Miss Chatterton in what she terms her most interesting picture since her advent to the screen two years ago.

MARILYN MILLER HAS NEW PICTURE

Marilyn Miller, the petite little Broadway actress-dancer whose name has appeared in electric lights on the Great White Way for years has a brand-new spick-and span picture "Sunny," opening at the Ohio Sunday to continue through Tuesday.

The picture was taken from the delightful comedy-romance which Marilyn Miller enacted on the stage, a picture that will appeal to the family.

The children will love the circus scenes with Marilyn riding bareback, and the grown-ups will go for the Long Island society scenes and the shots aboard an ocean liner.

Playing opposite Miss Miller is Lawrence Gray, Joe Donahue, Mackenzie Ward, O. P. Heggie, and other notables of the screen world, support the star.

"Sally," precedessor of "Sunny", was a bright and sparkling picture, and the screen magazines say that the star has been doing double-time to make her latest picture even more entertaining and spectacular.

HERE'S HOW WOLHEIM GOT HIS NOSE

LOUIS WOLHEIM, Robert Armstrong, Jean Arthur. Do those sound good to you, too? "Danger Lights" in which they are featured, will be at the Marion Sunday and Monday. It's a story of railroad life.

More than the distance around the equator, 31,000 miles were traversed by the company with three special trains during the two months the troupe was on location. The company traveled and lives most of the time on a 10-car special train. Two other trains were used for transporting equipment across the 12 states in which scenes were taken.

Louis Wolheim may not be a Barrymore for looks, but as an actor he's grand. We read recently how he came to have such a flattened nose. It was first crushed in football scrimmage. A plastic surgeon molded a beautiful straight nose and everything was lovely until an over-zealous companion was too quick with his fists and knocked the plastic surgery haywire.

The nose got him his first start in pictures, and producers become rampant when he mentions having it "done over" again. A big pay-checks means more than a straight nose and a little pay-check, and we still have the fierce Wolheim with us.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, Dec. 28

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a forecast of the unusual changeable and erratic according to the stellar activities of intriguing planets. There may be an accent on the spectacular and peculiar, with marvelous experiences or subtle undermining situations. Sudden change, illness and misunderstanding in employment may be disturbing factors, which have promise of being reconciled by mystical or spiritual equations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of unusual, and possibly, baffling experiences and adventures. With a stress of spiritual or occult forces there may be compensations for anxieties regarding health, employment and domestic concerns. Sudden change and distressing opposition may be offset by very clever management, stratagem or secret agreements. Diplomacy may be the best policy. A child born on this day may be inclined to make its way through life by diplomacy, subtlety and craft. He may have many peculiar talents or adventures.

For Monday, Dec. 29

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is not an auspicious one. Although the faculties and forces may be under high stimulus for initiative and adventure yet there are a number of adverse positions calling for calm deliberation and practical manipulation with restraint and good judgment. All financial arrangements should be conservatively considered, and writings and contracts handled with precaution.

Those whose birthday it is may have a lively year, with the spirit of adventure and enterprise under high stimulus, but there may be many stubborn obstacles to overcome by discretion and conservatism. Handle funds and sign all writings with unusual precaution. A child born on this day may be adventurous, energetic and resourceful but may be disposed to be reckless and extravagant in use of its funds.

NAVY DOORS REOPEN

Recruiting Officers Return to Job After Period of Inactivity.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Recruiting officers will be back on the job on and after Thursday to receive young men who want to "join the navy and see the world."

No recruits have been accepted since last Oct. 8 when the operating plan of the fleet was revised to such an extent that 4,800 men of the enlisted personnel lost their regular assignment.

The navy department said today 800 men will be accepted during January, 1,200 during February and in March the normal monthly quota of 1,600 gobs will be presented uniforms and given their first instruction in tying knots and swabbing decks.

Marion Churches Plan Watch Night Services for Wednesda

Congregations To Hail Arrival of New Year

City Young People's Union To Present Program at First Reformed Church; Trinity Baptist and Full Gospel Assembly To Observe Occasion.

Three Watch Night services, including a City Young People's Union program at First Reformed church, were announced for Wednesday night in the churches of Marion.

The service at First Reformed church will be in charge of the young people of Marion churches and will include a devotional service, music and program to which adults and young people of Marion have been invited.

Trinity Baptist church and the Full Gospel Assembly also have announced services for New Year's eve.

The New Year's service for all members of Trinity Baptist church is the outstanding event of next week's activities at the church. Extensive preparations have been made for the affair under the supervision of committees. The program has been divided into four periods of one hour each from 8 to 12 p. m.

Harry Woodal is leader of the devotional period from 8 to 9 p. m. in which the subject will be, "What the Bible Does." Speakers will talk on each of the five topics, "Road map," "Flashlight," "Signpost", "Mirror" and "Guide Book."

From 9 to 10 p. m. a program of vocal, instrumental and reading selections has been outlined with Miss Bernita LeMasters and Miss Cerrelda Yazel in charge. Dale Gorman is directing a short sketch to be given in this hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reddick are in charge of a refreshment period from 10 to 10:20, to be followed by a recreational time from 10:20 to 11. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Roberts are in charge of entertainment for the older members and Dale Gorman and Charles Jones are planning entertainment for the young people.

Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor, will deliver a devotional address to be followed by a consecration service at which he will preside. This period will be from 11 to 12.

Committees in charge of the services are

Program, Harry Woodal, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Roberts, Dale Gorman, Charles Jones, Miss Cerrelda Yazel, Miss Bernita LeMasters; refreshments, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reddick, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Schneider, Mrs. Blanche Rish, Mrs. D. E. Gorman; decorations, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Duffey, chairmen, Miss Norma Parker, Miss Emily Dale Wingett, Miss Martha Weaver, Glen Duffey, George Barnhart; boosters, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. LeMasters, chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Hazen, Miss Evelyn Behrens, Miss Mildred Duffey, James Richards, Stanley Fogleson, Glen Patton.

A Hallelujah jubilee service will begin at the Full Gospel Assembly on Darius street Wednesday at 8 p. m. The Full Gospel Crusaders, young people's society will present a program after which lunch will be served. Dareld Sealey is president of the young people's group.

Prayer, singing, testifying and a New Year's eve message by the pastor, Rev. B. E. Hillman, will follow. Rev. Hillman will speak on "Watch and Pray" and "Pray Without Ceasing." As 1930 becomes history and 1931 dawns, prayer services will be held at the altar. The services will be open to the public.

PASTORS TO PREACH NEW YEAR SERMONS

Marion Ministers List Topics for Sunday Morning Services.

New Year's sermons will be delivered in many pulpits in Marion Sunday morning and night.

Rev. James M. Fisher, director of the Lee Street Presbyterian church has selected for his subject, "Sun Stand Thou Still," in which he will go back over the sermons he has preached this year, reviewing the strongest points of some, and will give some time to the outlook for 1931.

Starling Somerlot will lead a discussion of "Things This Year Has Taught Us" at the B. Y. P. U. meeting Sunday at 6:30 p. m. at Trinity Baptist church.

New Year's sermons will be delivered at the following churches Sunday: Calvary Evangelical, 7:30 p. m., "A New Year's Message"; First Church of the Brethren, 10:30 a. m., "Are the Books Ready for the Auditor?"; Forest Lawn Presbyterian, 10:40 a. m., "A New Year." 7 p. m., "Backward and Forward"; Fite Memorial Baptist, 10:30 a. m., "The Value of a New Year's Resolution"; Salem Evangelical, 10:30 a. m., "Abide with Me During the New Year," 8:30 a. m., German sermon, "Our Greetings for the New Year"; Prospect Street M. E., 10:30 a. m., "Taking the Inventory."

White Gift Offering To Go to Missions

First United Presbyterian church announced today the amounts taken in two offerings at services last Sunday.

The White Gift offering of the missionary society, held Sunday afternoon, yielded a contribution of $282 which will go to missionary work. This amount was in addition to $188 given at a special offering Sunday morning to go to the Presbyterian Old Folks home at Sidney, O.

TO PRESENT CANTATA

The choir of Emanuel's Lutheran church will present a Christmas cantata Sunday at 7:30 p. m. Matthews. "The Story of Christmas" will be sung. E. C. Carl is director of the choir.

Forgive and Forget

A SERMONETTE

BY REV. HERBERT F. WECKMUELLER

Pastor First Reformed Church

I HAVE read that it happened on the Belgian frontier during the World war. The country-side was in chaos, ruins everywhere. Charred walls, heaps of rubbish marked the sites where once hundreds of homes stood, and happy people lived. Now all was grim, bleak, black, and cold, for winged death had passed over the land. A dozen children, lean from semi-starvation, came out of their cellar school and knelt to say the Lord's prayer. A Belgian officer without any insignia of rank stood near by and watched the children. They said their prayer as far as "Forgive us our debts as we" and then they paused. It seemed as though they could not continue. The officer with clear voice concluded the petition "As we forgive our debtors." It was Albert, the beloved King of the Belgians.

New Year's time is resolution time. Most resolutions made at that time are good, for a little while, and then they are "good for nothing." Let New Year's time be forgiveness time, and let that forgiveness be good forever.

As we travel through the years, our lives become cluttered up with shattered hopes and bruised memories. Our dreams, like soap bubbles burst in thin air, our ambitions are crushed; and gradually our natures become sour and morose. We become introspective; we imagine that the world has turned against us. Everything in life seems wrong. Ever felt that way? Then it's time to pray "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors." With that one prayer we can clear the docket of our memory. No matter what the world may have done, it is forgiven and forgotten. The New Year lies ahead. Don't let the ills of 1930 become the drags of 1931.

Or it may be that our grievances are personal, not general. Some individual has done something, or said something, and like a pet wound we have treasured it in our heart. We have let it rankle in our memory, until it has warped our thinking and our living. We either are burning up with anger, or else like a martyr, we have that much abused appearance. Ever felt that way? Then it's time to pray "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors." With that one prayer clean out the wound of mind and heart, lest it become a cancer and kill in turn. Love cannot live where anger abides. Don't let the grouches or grievances of 1930 become the shackles of 1931.

Forgiveness is the very soul of the Christian spirit. The person who cannot forgive is not a complete Christian. In fact by that very act of refusing to forgive he is condemning himself. Every time we pray the Lord's prayer we are making a contract with God. We deliberately say "Forgive us as we forgive." And then we refuse to forgive, and yet expect God to forgive us. May God be more charitable toward us than we are toward our fellow man.

No man knows what 1931 may bring forth. But this one thing we can know, that as far as we are concerned no sin of the past shall enter into the new year. We shall leave them all behind, the sins that we have committed, and the sins that have been committed against us. With one all-sweeping prayer we can cleanse our minds, and free our souls, and bring joy into all of our human relationships. Let no man be ashamed to get a new start for 1931. Simply pray "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors."

TO CONDUCT DRIVE IN CHURCHES HERE

County Ministerial Association To Conduct Attendance Drive.

"Go-to-Church" month will open a week from Sunday in all churches in Marion county as a result of the efforts of the Marion County Ministerial association to inspire greater interest in church activities at the beginning of the new year and to continue this interest throughout 1931.

The committee in charge, of which Rev. George E. Groves of Central Christian church is chairman, has issued the following invitation to the people of Marion and Marion county.

"The churches extend an invitation to you, no matter who you are, to worship with them on the Lord's day. Whether sad or joyful, discouraged or full of hope, ill or well, poor or rich, old or young, friendless or befriended, saint or sinner, you will find a warm welcome and a helpful service awaiting you at these churches, with the welfare of mankind at heart.

The church yearns to assure men that she wants to be helpful in every possible way. Like her Master, she is in our midst, 'Not to be ministered unto, but to minister.' Her ministers would kneel at every death bed and stand by every grave, speaking the Gospel of Life."

PLAN HOMECOMING PARTY FOR STUDENTS

Special Program Arranged by Trinity Baptist Young People.

A homecoming party for all students and teachers and any other young people of Trinity Baptist church who are home for the holidays from their school or work, will be given Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the church with the Senior Baptist Young People's union as hosts.

Miss Cerrelda Yazel is general chairman of the invitation committee. Miss Mabel Hastings is chairman of the refreshments committee, Miss Bernita LeMasters is chairman of the program committee and James Richards is chairman of the recreational committee.

The Junior B. Y. P. U. will hold a potluck supper Monday at 6:30 p. m. at the church. Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Schneider are in charge of the party. Games and contests will be included in the program.

M'NEAL TO DIRECT MUSIC FOR VESPERS

Sunday Afternoon Services at First Presbyterian Church Planned.

The Sunday school orchestra of First Presbyterian church, under the direction of L. B. McNeal, will present a program of music at the vesper services Sunday at 4 p. m.

Two solos, vocal and violin, are included in the program. Leonard Young will sing Sullivan's, "The Lost Chord," and Miss Miriam Walker will play a selected violin number.

Schubert's "March Militaire" will open the program. Invocation and a hymn by the congregation will follow, after which the orchestra will play "Liebestraum" by Liszt.

Following the vocal solo and a hymn, excerpts from Romberg's "The Student Prince" will be played during the offertory. A hymn and the violin solo will be followed by "La Fontaine," Lysberg, benediction and postlude, "March with Sabre and Spurs," Sousa.

TO REVIEW LESSONS

Disappearance of Melvin Horst Still Dark Mystery on Second Anniversary

WOOSTER, Dec. 27—Today marks the second anniversary of Wayne county's strangest mystery—the disappearance of 4-year-old Melvin Horst, who slipped out of sight near his home at Orrville on the afternoon of Dec. 27, 1928.

As the shadows of evening thickened at the end of that dismal day Mrs. Raymond Horst, the boy's mother, walked to the door of their little home and called to Melvin to come in to supper. He didn't answer.

Alarm Arouses Village

Shortly afterward the boy's father came home from work. He called to his son but there was no answer. Then he walked around the block. He could find no trace of Melvin. An hour later the entire neighborhood was hunting the lad and before midnight most of the residents of the village were engaged in the search.

And the search for Melvin goes on today although two full years have passed without bringing to light a single clue that has led to the boy dead or alive.

MELVIN HORST

Mrs. Raymond Horst did not expect her child to be restored to her as a Christmas present this year. She dared to hope he would come home last year, for Christmas came hard on the heels of a cruel hoax in the form of a note which, on Dec. 12, promised the lad's safe return. But Melvin was not returned.

Away for Christmas

Melvin's parents did not remain in their home here to celebrate Christmas this year. They were guests of Raymond's father, Charles Horst, at Smithville, near here.

As the father and mother hope for Melvin's return county officials continue their search for him. The task has been carried on quietly and virtually without publicity for several months.

The Horst family continues to live in Orrville, although not in the home where Melvin disappeared. Local interest in the mystery has long since passed the "fever" stage, but the undercurrent of interest in what happened to the child remains unabated.

COMMITTEE PLANS COMMUNITY MEET

Third Annual Event To Be Held in Bucyrus High School.

Special To The Star

BUCYRUS, Dec. 27—Plans are being made by the various committees for the third annual community convention to be held at the Bucyrus High school Feb. 18 and 19. A meeting will be held within a week or 10 days when reports will be made by the committees and the entire program for the four sessions arranged. A change in the convention, which has formerly been a two day and one night affair has been effected this year when two night sessions and two day sessions will be held.

Speakers who have already been secured are Warden P. E. Thomas of Ohio penitentiary, R. V. Tum of the department of rural economics, Ohio State university, and L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau. Plans are also being made for the appearance of a county orchestra.

GALION LOSES

Orangemen Drop First Game of Year to Sandusky Team.

GALION, Dec. 27—The Galion High cagers lost their first game of the season last night to the Sandusky High representatives by a score of 23 to 15. Goldsmith started the scoring with a foul soon after the first tipoff but in a very short time the visitors took the lead and maintained it throughout the entire game. Many fouls were called on both teams and the locals displayed a very poor eye for the basket when shooting from the charity line, making good a very low percentage of their opportunities to score in this manner. One of the Orangemen and two of Sandusky's players were forced out of the game on personal fouls.

Daily Proverb—"He that gives himself leave to play with his neighbor's fame may soon play it away"

Christmas activities being now things of the past, the time is ripe for framing those "new ones" for New Years

The "exchanges" having been made, the store people may now take a breathing spell, as it were, and rest their tired nerves

Premier Mussolini is to talk to us in English over the air January 1. To establish his identity, he might start his talk off with a little saber-rattling

A semi-annual survey made by the department of commerce shows that, while the cash business of department, women's specialty, men's clothing and shoe stores has decreased slightly during the past twelve months, proportionate sales on open and installment credit have made slight gains, the one practically offsetting the other. Just another bit in line with the department's announcement regarding our imports for the year.

Bids have been opened for the construction of two miles of subway in Queens, New York City, the lowest being $6,296,235, and Cook county, Illinois, is advertising for bids on thirty-three paving projects, the estimates on which aggregate $3,721,000. Contracts such as these should at least make some dents in the unemployment situation in these two cities. Who knows? Maybe the country really has "turned the corner."

Talking about Christmas gifts, a Chicago woman presented her husband Christmas twins. But you never can tell. He may hold that the gift marked an overdoing of the Christmas spirit.

It is announced that the low total of our foreign imports is not due to a greatly decreased volume, but rather to price declines. We are buying just about as much abroad, but at lower prices. In time, Washington may discover that something like that has been discovered by American commercial houses, that volumes of sales are about as great, but that cheaper goods are being purchased, which means a corresponding cut in profits.

The anti-administration forces in congress are planning to force more aid for the jobless. The first thing they know that may "put one over on themselves," for it is pretty well known that President Hoover, while opposing anything resembling a dole, has been planning to ask for relief in addition to that which has already been provided on his recommendation.

Proof of plant migration between Asia and North America came with the recent discovery of sequoia tree fossils on St. Lawrence island off the Alaskan coast. Now the perfectly preserved remains of trees of an Asiatic type estimated to be 15,000,000 years old have been found in Alberta province of Canada. There doesn't appear to be much ground left for questioning the theory that Asia and Alaska at one time had a land connection.

"Kin." Hubbard Dead.

"Abe Martin" has chewed his last straw, cocked his eye at the weather the last time and delivered his last pithy comment. His creator, Frank McKinney Hubbard, is dead

"Kin" Hubbard, as he was known to thousands of Americans, never had to go out of his way to make friends They came to him in hordes, and mingled among them were few imposters There are men whose characters are like strong magnets, drawing to them only that they can hold; "Kin." Hubbard was one of them

Perhaps the outstanding characteristic of this commentator on life's foibles was his brilliance. A man who attended school with him at Bellefontaine, many years ago, has this to say of him as a youth:

"He was one of those alert fellows—snapping dark eyes, a fine head of dark hair and a ready tongue. He never had to study. Pshaw! He could keep up with the rest of us without studying"

And from the same source, concerning the budding "Abe Martin" "Around the Bellefontaine Examiner—his fathers' newspaper—he never did very much; maybe draw a picture and tack it up. His father used to say the boy never would amount to anything"

Of course, the elder Hubbard never really meant it. At any rate, the son who was so fond of drawing pictures had been connected with the Indianapolis News twenty-six years at the time of his death and was a nationally-known figure. He had attained a position from which he was able to scan the world with an impartially contemplative eye and had so conducted his life that his comments on the affairs of men always were worth their face value, with no discount for the author's character.

Third Party Talk.

We have the feeling that the press associations are giving far more attention to the suggestion that Senator George W Norris, of Nebraska, head a third-party movement than the situation deserves The suggestion was made to the Nebraskan in a letter from a professor of Columbia university, from which institution, it will be recalled, many queer notions have come from time to time during the last twelve or thirteen years, of which this suggestion of the Nebraska senator as the head of a new party is not the least bizarre.

The immediate prompting for the letter was the disclosure that Executive Director Robert H Lucas, of the Republican national committee, had, as an individual, financed the printing of certain pieces of literature for the regular Republican organization in Nebraska in the hope of defeating Senator Norris for reelection The action of Mr Lucas would have been most commendable in the light of the Norris record during the past decade had it not been for his connection with the national committee Any Republican would have been justified in contributing to the campaign of the anti Norris Republicans in Nebraska without going about with a brass band to call attention to the fact. It is held by some, however, that, as a member of the Republican national committee, Mr Lucas violated the ethics of politics by withholding from general knowledge the fact that he was thus rendering aid to those opposing the reelection of Senator Norris, and Norris and his friends are demanding his resignation

It is generally known that Senator Norris fought President Coolidge throughout his incumbency in the White House, he opposed the nomination of Herbert Hoover and later worked for his defeat, publicly championing the election of Mr. Hoover's opponent, Alfred E Smith. Since the inauguration of Mr. Hoover, he has done his utmost to handicap the President and defeat the administration policies And the senator's course since the Lucas disclosure has not been above criticism Director Lucas, not without good ground since the literature provided by him speaks for itself, denies that it contained one word concerning religion or was calculated to appeal to religious prejudice, as claimed by Senator Norris, and he terms "malicious" the assertion of the senator that President Hoover apparently was behind the anti-Norris drive.

What the senator's answer to the third-party suggestion will be is, at the time of this writing, a question, but it is hardly probable that he will display any great degree of enthusiasm over its reception. He is enough of a politician to recognize the obstacles in the way of the launching of a third-party movement, not the least of which is its financing. As a student of history, he knows the fate of the two third-party movements in comparatively recent years. He will recall the more recent, the La Follette, in 1924. The Wisconsin senator, though possessed of a many times greater following than that of the Nebraska senator, with his own state squarely behind him, polled but 4,822,850 votes out of a total of 29,091,417 votes. The earlier movement, that of Roosevelt in 1912, resulted in a vote of 4,126,020 for the former president out of a total of 15,031,189.

If Senator Norris can appraise himself with anything like reasonable accuracy, he is bound to realize that he could hardly win where Colonel Roosevelt and Senator La Follette failed. The latter, as stated, had a considerable following. The former probably had a greater personal following up to the time of his bolt than any man in the country's history had ever enjoyed. Neither had ever bolted the candidate of the Republican party to take the stump for or otherwise champion the election of a Democratic presidential nominee. Both of them were constructive in their policies, Colonel Roosevelt especially so, and were real leaders. But Senator Norris' record doesn't indicate a thirst on the part of the country for leadership by him, did he possess the gift of leadership. Just the contrary. The senator's course has been that of an obstructionist, a course of criticism and of fault-finding. Seemingly, his chief aim has been to hamstring the administration, which is not a characteristic of leadership.

There is little likelihood that talk of a third party with Senator Norris at its head will prove more than talk.

One of the country's leading newspapers holds editorially with Judge William Clark, that ratification of constitutional amendments by conventions is preferable to ratification by legislatures. Having in mind the constitution the wild-eyed delegates to the last constitutional convention in Ohio gave the people of the state, we're inclined to believe that the safest method may be by a direct majority vote of the entire electorate of the country

The London Times today printed pictures of Russian treasury banknotes showing that the soviet government is repeating it paper money on an extensive scale to conceal inflation. One photograph shows forty bills of the five-ruble denomination, all showing the same identical number and photographs of other groups in which five to ten bills of the same number appears. The soviet leaders have become so consistently crooked that they probably esteem dishonesty a virtue.

Editorial Opinion.

THE GREAT UNIVERSITY.

In commenting to the house the other day upon the value of the Vollbehr collection, purchased by congress and a part of which has been placed on exhibition in the Library of Congress, Representative Moore, of Virginia, recalled that "in his own time" the library was housed in the capitol "and contained but a comparatively small collection of books." Mr. Moore noted that the library had a very small beginning indeed, with Mr. Jefferson appointing as the first librarian John Beckley, of Virginia, who received two dollars a day for the days he actually worked as librarian. Mr. Beckley was also the clerk of the house, and neither of his tasks was in those days a killing job.

All of this was by way of emphasis upon the remarkable growth of the library as an institution that is maintained for and by all the people. It long since has outgrown its original function of collecting reference data for the members of congress alone One of Mr. Herbert Putnam's ideas, during the more than thirty years of his librarianship, has been to further the work of scholarship throughout the United States through the medium that is offered by the library, and congress has more than once shown its sympathetic attitude by generous appropriations, such as that which went for the purchase of the Vollbehr collection.

"When," says Mr. Putnam in his annual report, "in addition to providing $180 000 for the increase of the library for the current year the house and senate voted unanimously to set aside $1,500,000 for the purchase of the Vollbehr collection * * * it was strikingly demonstrated that congress earnestly desires to make its library one of the greatest reference libraries in the world and a center for scholarly research"

That this conception of the library is shared by an increasing number of private citizens is demonstrated in the lenghty list of valuable gifts received by the library during the past year. Of these the most substantial has been the grant from the Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics with an endowment for the establishment and maintenance of a "Chair of Aeronautics." This becomes another addition to the increasing list of chairs and endowments which serve more than ever to make of the library the great American university, while the various "projects" undertaken by the libary are destined to broaden its field and scope far beyond any national boundaries—Washington Star.

Friends Across the Firing Line.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

General Sheridan added one more to that large number of interesting stories of how old friends and even close relatives met during the civil war to find themselves on different sides of the firing line, a condition that is likely to exist in all civil wars. It was along toward the close of the war, when it was plain to both sides that the confederacy was to lose, and Sheridan was campaigning in Virginia. He had sent out scouting parties to hang on to the rear of the retreating confederates and pick off such prisoners as they could

Among the prisoners brought in by one of these parties was George W Carr, formerly an officer in the United States army and who as such had been stationed with Sheridan in the far Northwest before the war, to keep the Indians there in subjection Sheridan recognized him at once and recalled that it was Carr who had supervised the execution of nine Indians there under his orders in an effort to impress upon the Indians that they must respect the laws of the country.

Carr, then in officer in the confederate army, was much emaciated, poorly dressed and evidently much depressed by the turn of affairs against the confederacy He had resigned from the union army at the outbreak of the war and joining the confederates, had thrown himself into the struggle on that side with great enthusiasm Now he felt that there was nothing more in life for him He seemed to be at the point of despondency at which men make away with themselves.

But General Sheridan greeted him pleasantly, ordered him sent to his headquarters, where he was given wholesome food of which he was in great need provided with proper clothing and made to feel things were not as bad as he was inclined to think When he was restored to health Sheridan sent him to the rear with the first squad of prisoners to be sent on their way to prison and he was never heard of again by the general

Diet Necessary to Health.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Scurvy was most common in the days of long sea voyages. Wherever there was long continued lack of fresh vegetables and fruits, scurvy would appear Armies and navies suffered tremendously and it proved to be a decisive factor in many battle

Napoleon often mentioned the importance of his soldiers having good food. Though he knew nothing about vitamins, he probably ordered fresh vegetables and fruits for his men whenever possible.

Without fresh vegetables and fruits the signs of scurvy soon appear. There is a lack of energy and no desire for work. There is mental as well as physical fatigue. Appetite fails and the individual becomes extremely irritable.

Unless the diet is changed the patient becomes extremely weak, with marked loss of weight. The skin assumes a peculiar pallor.

In modern times it is rare to have further symptoms. But in extreme cases there appear small hemorrhages like blood blisters in the skin and lining of the mouth. The gums may become swollen and bleed upon the slightest touch. In such cases the teeth are extremely sensitive, become loose and may fall out.

Formerly this disease was met in orphan asylums and institutions where errors in the diet were all too common. With increasing knowledge of vitamins and the importance of fruit juice as part of the daily diet, this tendency is becoming rare.

In any institution, or boarding school, where there is evidence of much laziness and lack of "pep" in the children, the diet should be carefully scrutinized. If there is lack of the proper foods, correction of the feeding will act like magic. The laziness and listlessness of the youngsters will disappear.

We are not so much concerned about the cause of scurvy as we are about the preventions of scurvy. Since certain foods are rich in the elements that will prevent these uncomfortable symptoms, we should always partake of these foods.

Orange juice and tomato juice are most important "antiscorbutic" foods. It has been shown that the juice of one orange or of one tomato taken daily, will prevent scurvy in an adult.

Children and infants, regardless of what their diet is otherwise, should have in addition a daily quota of orange or tomato juice. The amount may vary from one teaspoonful, to the juice of the entire fruit, depending upon the age of the child.

Green vegetables, cabbage, young carrots, spinach, potatoes and rhubarb are important in their content of vitamin C. It is the presence of this particular vitamin that insures safety from scurvy.

The importance of green vegetables and fruits can not be overestimated. They are useful, not only in the treatment and prevention of scurvy, but also for the general maintenance of good health

Bell, Genius of Telephone.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Perhaps no invention by an American has been recognized as so typical of the genius of this country as the telephone. "What startles and frightens the backward European in the United States" says Arnold Bennett, "is the efficiency and fearful universality of the telephone To me it was the proudest achievement and the most poetical achievement of the American people" And yet the inventor of the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell, although ranked as an American inventor, was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on March 3, 1847.

However, the great success and enormously wide distribution of the telephone in the United States is due, not only to the inventor, but in equal measure to characteristically energetic American enterprise In this country there is approximately one telephone to every nine persons' Its circuits contain considerably more than 25,000,000 miles of wire; and the average number of daily messages transmitted through the system is in excess of 35,000,000. The United States contains about seventy-five per cent. of all the telephones in existence'

After being in Edinburgh and at London university, Bell followed to Canada his father, who was deeply interested in a system of instruction for the deaf and dumb. In 1871, he settled in Boston, where he accepted a position in Boston university to introduce his system of teaching deaf mutes. While teaching "vocal physiology," he worked on an invention which he called the "harmonic telegraph" He succeeded, by a very simple device, in making two similar springs vibrate in unison at the end of a telegraph line He worked on this device, in the hope of being able to send several messages at the same time, but he was never able to make his invention work satisfactorily.

In 1861, Philip Reis in Germany, had constructed an instrument which he named a "telephone," through which he succeeded in transmitting musical sounds with some success Speech transmission, for lack of a minor alteration afterwards discovered, never proved a success.

Bell was well acquainted with the experiments and invention of Reis, and became deeply interested in the idea of transmitting speech electrically. His invention was due, it seems, to a fortunate accident, which has been graphically told in 'The Book of Popular Science."

According to Bell's mechanician, Thomas A. Watson, he was engaged, on June 2, 1875, in vibrating one of the springs at the sending end of a short line in an attic on Court street, in Boston, while Professor Bell was tuning a spring in another room at the other end of the line

The vibrating contact at the sending end accidentally became welded together by the heat of the spark, and Watson, in trying to break the fused contact, plucked the spring several times. Professor Bell rushed in from the next room and cried. "What did you do then?"

Bell had heard the exact sound of the sending spring at the receiving end of the line. It took him but a moment to realize that the vibrations of a spring placed near an electro-magnet connected in a closed circuit will cause the current in the circuit to vary in strength at the same frequency as the vibrations of the spring

Since Professor Bell, like his father before him, was an expert in the science of sound and had devoted many years to the problem of teaching the deaf and dumb to speak, he quickly saw the possibility of replacing the spring by a diaphragm large enough to vibrate in accordance with the varrying air pressure produced by the voice. After much experiment with various shapes of diaphragm, a transmitter and a receiver were made which transmitted speech fairly well.

The patent for this invention was issued on March 7, 1876. When the instrument was demonstrated at the Centennial exposition in Philadelphia this same year, Dom Pedro, of Brazil, picked up the receiver, put it to his ear, and exclaimed: "My God! It talks!"—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

Investigators in Large Cities of Country Seek To Determine Losses.

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Dec. 27—With the discovery of $89,000 worth of forged certificates representing 2,900 shares of Fox Film company stock, police today were hunting members of a swindling ring believed to be operating in a nationwide sale.

Stock in two other large corporations has been forged, investigators learned, but the extent of the fraud and the losses to buyers of securities cannot be determined until a nationwide checkup on all stocks has been completed.

Officials of the stock exchange and brokerage houses in Chicago, New York and other large cities are cooperating in the investigation.

Forgeries of the Fox film stock were discovered through the arrest of Louis Liss here, authorities said. Liss is charged with having sold $25,000 worth of Fox class A temporary stock certificates to a local brokerage house several days ago.

R. Arthur Wood, president of the Chicago stock exchange, admitted that he discovered similar forgeries of the stocks but refused to reveal what they represented in money value.

According to police the forgeries were of excellent workmanship and succeeded in deceiving investment experts here for some time.

The Chicago Stock exchange has asked all members to send in all stock certificates for inspection.

PRESENTS DAUGHTER AT BRILLIANT AFFAIR

Helen Eames Doherty Introduced to Society; Thousand Guests Present.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—The most pretentious social event of many Washington seasons ended early today after a night of splendor had introduced the daughter of Henry L. Doherty to capital and New York society.

The thousand guests who had assembled from many social centers departed from the Mayflower hotel to the accompaniment of a thin trickle of rain shortly before the light of coming day showed in the east. It had been raining all night, but within the hotel all had been glittering light and magnificence.

The affair was for Miss Helen Eames Doherty, who wanted all her coming out parties combined in one grand gesture of introduction. She is the daughter of Mrs. Doherty by a former marriage, but has been adopted by the gas and oil magnate. She is tall, blond, self-assured and the mistress of seven languages.

The Doherty party took possession of the social center last night. All the hotel halls, enriched by costly decorations, were given over to the event. Invitations had been sent to many parts of the world.

One thousand guests, including Vice President Curtis, cabinet members, dozens of diplomats and a special train load of New York's elite, swarmed through the corridors, ballrooms and presidential dining hall, covering half a city square.

Dancing continued until dawn. At 6 a. m. the saxophonists sobbed a finale, the last silver slipper clicked on marble steps, and the guests retired to breakfast on little pig sausage.

VILLAGE IN RUINS

Seven Inhabitants Killed As Quake Rocks Argentina Town.

By International News Service

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 27—Relief expeditions sent to earthquake-LaPoma, near Salta, reported by radio today that the entire village was in ruins, with seven inhabitants dead and 40 injured.

Four of the dead are children who died from exposure to torrential rains that followed a series of 50 shocks Tuesday night, scattering the 500 natives of the collapsing village in terror. Thunderous rumblings and atmospheric disturbances preceding the actual temblors warned the inhabitants sufficiently in advance, allowing them time to flow into the open and avert a greater casualty list.

LaPoma is considered the center of Argentine's earthquakes.

WIDOW POSTS SHEPARD BOND

Denver Woman's Intuition Responsible for Release of Major from Prison.

By The Associated Press

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 27 — A woman's intuition, as she expressed it, was responsible for release on bond of Major Charles A. Shepard, 58, medical corps officer, convicted Monday on a charge of fatally poisoning his wife.

Mrs. Alice W. Watt, wealthy Denver widow, has announced she posted $20,000 to secure the officer's release because she had an "instinctive knowledge of the utter impossibility of the major committing such a deed."

She does not like the publicity, she said, but if it will "tend to influence other friends to come to his aid, then I do not regret it."

Meanwhile plans went forward for a new defense fund to be applied to litigation for a new trial or appeal of the conviction under which Major Shepard faces formal sentence, February 2, to life imprisonment.

He was convicted on government evidence tending to show he murdered his wife, June 15, 1928, at Fort Riley, Kas., to be free to marry Miss Grace Brandon, blonde Brooks Field, Tex., stenographer, who testified for the prosecution.

PLEASANT FIVES WIN DOUBLE COURT BILL

Boys Beat Waldo 23-16; Girls Easy Winners by 43-27 Count.

The Pleasant Township High school basketball teams made the annual holiday homecoming of the school a huge success last night by handing Waldo's cagers the short end of both games of a double court bill. About 60 alumni of the school were on hand to witness the clash and the events which preceded it, while additional spectators swelled the crowd at the game to around 250 persons. Waldo was beaten by the Pleasant boys 21 to 16 while the Pleasant girls went on a scoring rampage and swamped the opponents 43 to 27.

Waldo boys played the winners on fairly even terms in most of the game but faltered ere the finale whistle sounded. K. Biggerstaff topped the scorers collecting three goals and a foul for seven points.

Eichhorn, classy forward for Pleasant, who has been doing big things for the school in its chase for the western district championship of Marion county, tossed buckets regularly to amass a total of 22 markers by virtue of nine two-pointers and a quartet of free tosses. She was far ahead of her nearest competitor, Strine of Waldo, who scored 13 points on five free throws and four goals.

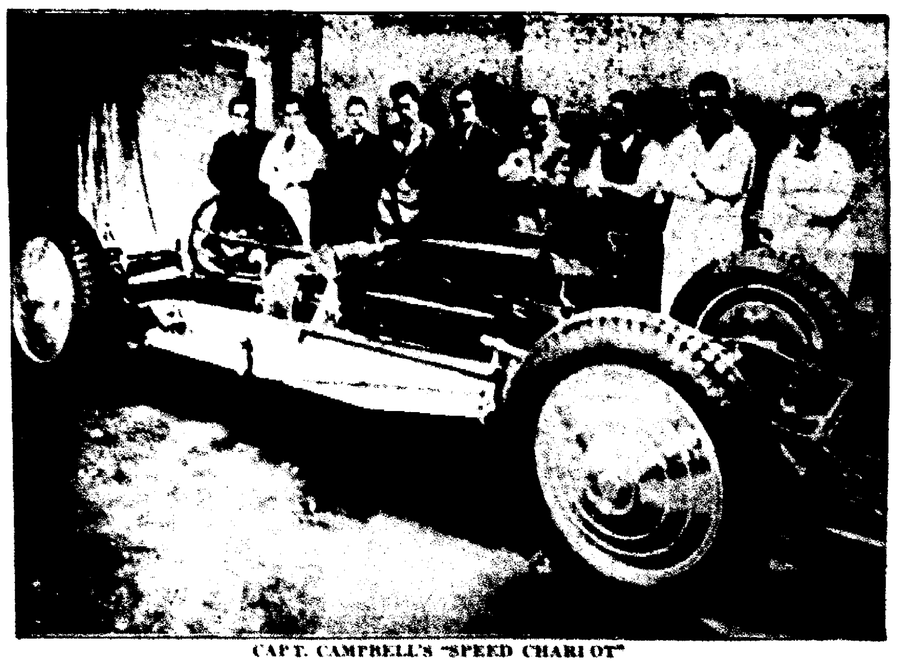
CAR OF TREMENDOUS POWER TO CARRY BRITISHER IN DASH FOR SPEED MARK



CAPT. CAMPBELL'S "SPEED CHARIOT"

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 27—When Captain Malcom Campbell blasts down Daytona beach in January he will be driving the most powerful racing car in his hazardous experience.

The new "Blue Bird" is much lower than the car in which he flashed 214 miles an hour over the same sands in 1928.

When he is seated at the wheel the top of Captain Campbell's head is less than 45 inches from the ground. The car has a clearance of only 3½ inches.

It is powered by a 12-cylinder supercharged Napier motor developing 1,450 horsepower at 3,600 r. p. m., while in 1928 the engine had only 920 h. p. The bore of the motor is 139.7 and the stroke 130.17.

High Power Capacity

The wheelbase is 12 feet, 6 inches and the length of the car overall is 25 feet, 6 inches.

The car is fitted with a constant mesh type of gearbox, giving three forward speeds and reverse.

The tires are specially made, with a very thin rubber tread and 14-ply canvass. They have been tested up to 300 miles an hour.

The whole car weighs 2½ tons.

The body will be of 16 gauge aluminum, with a heavy steel frame.

From the side it will look not unlike a giant arrow. At the back it has a tail directional fin, at the front a pointed radiator with vent in back to allow escape of air.

Wind resistance has been cut to the minimum in this design, Campbell said.

Has Hit 228-Mile Mark

Just how fast the machine will travel can only be told in the final test, Campbell said it already has traveled 225 miles an hour in a test.

The speed record now is 231 miles an hour, established by the late Sir Henry Segrave.

Daytona is the best racing beach he has ever found, Captain Campbell said, but its comparatively narrow course makes it hazardous.

If the beach of the Great Salt Lake in Utah should prove to be as good or better, Campbell would rather make the run there.

BOMB 2 PLACES

Fourth "Big Business Establishment Damaged Recently.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 27—Two bombs exploded almost simultaneously on the north side last night, one of them being the fourth directed against "big business" within recent weeks.

The bomb blew in the steel door of an apron factory owned by Carson Pirie Scott & Co. and damaged brick masonry, broke windows and shattered plastering in an apartment across an alley. Three persons in the apartment were slightly injured.

Another bomb damaged a Chinese restaurant. Ten occupants were not injured but four of them, in a card game, were knocked off their chairs.

Scientists To Exhibit Labor Saving Devices

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 27—A device for tired people and invalids who are unable to perform such a difficult task as turning out an electric light will be demonstrated at the research exhibits here next week in connection with the sessions of the American Association for The Advancement of Science.

Using the device, these persons may blow out or turn on an electric light merely with a whiff of breath. It is an invention of Dr. E. E. Free of New York, a consulting engineer and head of the Free laboratories.

The device consists of two tiny discs mounted in a telephone mouthpiece about an eighth of an inch apart. When the breath is blown on them they make a contact which operates a relay. The relay in turn, operates the electric light circuit.

Another whiff of breath separates the two discs and turns off the current.

The gigantic Titanothere, a prehistoric Rhinoceros which once foraged in Wyoming, Nebraska and North Dakota, will be placed on exhibit by Henry Fairfield Osburn, president of the American Museum of Natural History. In a wall painting 26 feet long and 16 feet wide these beasts will be shown in their natural habitat.

BRITISH SHIP AFIRE

By United Press

ADEN, Arabia, Dec. 27—The British steamer Queenmoor was afire near Aden today, with flames leaping above the hatches amidships. The bridge of the ship also was afire and it was unable to make steam. The American steamer Jeff Davis stood by ready to rescue the crew if they deserted the ship.

NEW ELECTION PLAN PROPOSED BY NORRIS

Announces That He Will Advocate Abolition of Electoral College.

and his ejection from the Republican party has been demanded.

"I do not believe that a man who has at heart the good of the country," he said, "can look upon a party as something that is sacred. . . . Our enthusiasm for a party often gets the best of our judgment.

"With due respect to all leaders, I can say the Republican party does not belong to Mr. Hoover or Mr. Lucas. . . .

"It is an open secret that the power interests are trying to nominate a Democrat who will be satisfactory to them. Known emissaries of the power trust are busy now trying to line up the Democratic party for Owen D. Young. . . .

Norris termed the electoral college whose abolition he will seek a mere "fifth wheel to a wagon."

"Now, in order to nominate a man," he added, "for practical purposes you have got to organize in every congressional district and select candidates for the electoral college. It can't be done in any case without expenditure of untold sums of money. Then, if it is done, the voter is forced to face a list of candidates as long as your arm."

To Celebrate Sunday

MR. AND MRS. J. W. GALLEHER

FIFTY years ago Dec. 28, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Galleher of 205 Superior street were married in Caledonia by Rev. Scott. Sunday they are celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of this event with a dinner at their home. The last 40 years of their married life have been spent in Marion county. The first 10 years they lived in Morrow county.

Both are 68 years of age. Mrs. Galleher was born Oct. 8, 1862 to Henry and Jane Ann Bolinger of Claridon and with the exception of the first 10 years she was married she has always lived in Marion county.

Mr. Galleher was born in Morrow county on July 30, 1862, to Joseph and America C. Galleher and was a resident of the county until 1890.

They are the parents of eight children, seven of whom are living. They are Clarence H. and William E. Galleher of Akron, John M. Galleher of Deposit, N. Y., Mrs. John Dairy and Mrs. Floyd Ash of Cleveland and Roy and Roscoe C. Galleher of Marion. There are 21 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren in the family.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Galleher are young in years and in health. He has been with the Erie Railroad Co. as storekeeper for the last 20 years.

Sunday at noon a buffet dinner will be served to the immediate relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Galleher will keep open house all afternoon to receive their many friends.

Complete Entertainment Bill for Hospital Benefit Ball

ENTERTAINMENT has been assured patrons of the benefit ball to be given Monday evening by the Women's board of Marion City hospital, with the announcement today of the entertainment to be provided by the committee in charge. The ball will be given in Schwinger's hall and annex.

W. W. Durbin of Kenton, president of the International Brotherhood of Magicians and Prof. R. H. Tomilson of London, hand palmist who was a feature of last year's ball, will be highlights of the entertainment for the affair, which is one of the outstanding events of the holiday social season.

Dancers from the Oscar Conrad Dance studio in Columbus, will present novelty feature dances and Worth Cramer of Columbus who sang at a pageant presented recently by the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs will be soloist of the evening.

Richard's Ensemble orchestra from New York, with a master of ceremonies who is himself an entertainer, will furnish music for dancing. The orchestra has played at Valley Dale and been heard in Chicago, Buffalo and New York clubs.

Mrs. Bennett Bindley is general chairman of arrangements for the ball. Miss Geraldine Hord and Miss Emma O'Brien, ticket chairmen, announced today that every effort was being made to reach those interested in the sale of tickets and that it was the wish of the board that the public attend regardless of whether or not it had been solicited by a member of the board.

Proceeds of the two previous balls given by the board have made possible the equipping of a laboratory at City hospital and installing of a technician, as well as generous contributions to the landscaping project of the hospital grounds, the reupholstering of the furnishings in the waiting room and the installation of an electric refrigerator on the third floor of the hospital.

Those who attend the ball and prefer cards to dancing, will find tables provided for their entertainment. Mrs. J. Macolm Strelitz is chairman of entertainment with Mrs. J. A. Dodd, Mrs. H. B. Hane, Mrs. J. H. Watters, Mrs. H. K. Mouser, Mrs. Edmund H. Keller, Mrs. Frank Longshore and Mrs. Howard Stoll serving on her committee.

Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer is chairman of refreshments, and Mrs. F. R. Mann is chairman of decorations.

Tickets for the ball may be procured from any member of the board which includes the following Marion women:

Mrs. Bennett Bindley, Mrs. E. L. Brady, Mrs. J. A. Dodd, Mrs. C. H. Elliott, Mrs. Daniel Evans, Miss Alice Hane, Mrs. H. B. Hane, Mrs. H. W. Hane, Mrs. S. S. Hardy, Mrs. W. H. Hickman, Mrs. J. L. Hoover, Miss Geraldine Hord, Mrs. Edmund H. Keller, Mrs. F. S. Keller, Mrs. Ray Reber King, Mrs. Daniel L. LaMarche, Mrs. Carl W. Leffler, Mrs. F. J. Longshore, Mrs. F. R. Just Things

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

New Year's

IT'S open season for the New Year's resolutions. The next few weeks will see a general sweeping off of such pet vices as smoking, seeing, hearing and speaking evil, kicking the neighbor's cat, etc. Then off a heavy Christmas dinner or two, letting other people mind their own business and so on and so forth. What an expansion of chests there will be when the owners draw it almost ceremoniously, the deep breath in response to those which have been imposed in nooks and crannies of desks for flo, these many months and what a glowing feeling will come with the returning of those books which have long been stacked up, just waiting the day when the procrastinating one can find a minute to spare. Without a doubt there are busy times ahead, but a ten to one bet is safe to say it will be the same old story over again.

Holiday Travelers

HOLIDAY travelers are a fickle lot. Enroute to their destinations they are a happy, good natured gang, just fairly radiating cheer and good will. On the return voyage they may feel just as friendly toward their fellow man but they have the mien of a flock of poker players. You just can't read their faces. And naturally, you look the same way to them.

• • •

Christmas Cards

THERE'S going to be an anti-Christmas card club in Marion next year if two people heard discussing this holidays have the right way. "It's all the bunk, now that one looks at them after they see who sends them" one opined while the other launched forth with figures on the financial end. You also know that before they are packed away (for they'll neither be sold nor throw them in the waste basket) they will all be looked at again, admired, and next year's list will be bigger and the cards better than ever.

IT is during times of depression that sellers want more money and buyers want more gains. Whatever it is you want, "Miscellaneous for Sale" in the Classified Page will help you out.

CHAPTER 5

A Stunt for Broadway

JIMMY was drawing caricatures on the table cloth.

He talked with Aileen in lowered ... although he might have ... ted. No one could have over... him against the noise of a ... that dinned in Aileen's ears. A blatant jazz orchestra was play... the season's latest dance hit ... a tenor shouted the words ... through a megaphone in an unin... [illegible] ... "Can't you get them to turn that ... off. The raucous notes made ... Aileen cringe and she put her ... hands over her ears.

"Have a heart for a fellow ar... Jimmy exclused the music. "Because you're ... you're ... I'll ... you."

Aileen smiled and Jimmy went on.

"Listen to me, honey. I don't want to sp... it in front of the other girls. Klein's going ... out on another show and I stole ... this morning about ... a part."

"Oh, Jimmy!" Aileen gasped. "D... I honestly think he would ... Jimmy, I'm the luckiest human ... on Broadway. I whispered a few words in his ear and ... him to come across."

"You didn't! Jim Crane, you know I wouldn't—"

"Shut that tune out. The program to which you are about to listen in... is no scandal. It's pure clean entertainment with a whale of a wallop. It is made possible through the courtesy of Mr. James Crane, who is probably, and without doubt, the cleverest cocker-up of publicity along the Great White Way. The ... orchestra will now play for you—"

"Don't be a nut."

"Can't help it. My brains in a permanent wave. That's how I happened to evolve an idea that appeals to Klein. I told him flatly that my price for it is giving you a chance. Klein has nothing to lose by that and it gives you a break."

"Jimmy, you're a darling."

"Don't! You make me nervous. I'm not used to such treatment. But to resume and continue. Klein's new show is entitled 'Sara's Christmas Stocking.' The so-called book of this masterpiece concerns Sara's methods of getting her Yuletide stocking filled with tasty trifles. Princes, revenue agents and garment manufacturers contribute lavishly. But to the surprise of Sara and of our audience, the most precious gift she receives is a poor but honest heart. Finale and curtain. Klein's proposing to open in three weeks if he can."

"That means work!" Aileen spoke from experience.

"Also it means gravy for a girl I have in mind. But to get back to the blackmail. In the first place, the logical symbol of Christmas is Santa Claus. Since the particular stocking involved is feminine, why not a lady Santa? Without whiskers, naturally. Secondly, who ever saw a Santa Claus on the streets of New York in August? Answer nobody. With the possible exception of the damsel who claims she found one at a table in a night club. That, I believe, has been done."

Jimmy paused to refresh himself from a goblet.

"My job is to work a publicity stunt that'll make first page. What do you think of that? You dress up as Miss Santa Claus in a nifty outfit and put on all your war paint. During the coming week you appear at various strategic points about the metropolis. One day outside the Ambassador. Another noon you storm the stock exchange and bait the bulls and bears. And so on until the reporters follow you in droves."

"It's a great little scheme," Aileen agreed, "but Jimmy, I can't do it."

Why the shrinking violet complex? Certainly you can't do it. I gave Klein the name that basks ... Nobody—no sirree."

"You are a dear," she said soft... as Jimmy's hour went flying.

"Can't you see the headlines?" Jimmy waxed enthusiastic partly in order to sell Aileen on her part in his plan. "The columnists will turn handsprings. The roles will howl for your pictures and the news reels will show you in action. Then on the night when the curtain goes up your name will be on the program as the engenue."

Aileen's eyes were sparkling. The promised reward of a part in the show opened up possibilities of which she had only dreamed. But she foresaw difficulties. "Are you sure the police won't interfere? Aren't people likely to think I'm collecting money?"

I've considered that," said Jimmy. He did not add how devoutly he hoped Aileen was right. There were corking possibilities in a blue cat's interference. No need to go into that now. Instead of the old iron kettle would have a great red stocking and an intriguing sign." He sketched out its legend on the table cloth.

"The noble stocking will be full of them. You give them away. A few lucky numbers will be redeemed. You take in no money. Just hand out the folders to the crowd—and I'll tell the world there'll be one."

"I'll be mobbed," Aileen protested.

"I hope—I mean don't worry," Jimmy corrected himself. "Have no fear, my precious. I'll be at your elbow every thrilling moment."

"Only you could thing up a stunt like that." Aileen was proud of him. "Jimmy it's so darned crazy, I believe it's good."

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy.

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Triumps in Her Scheme

THE flamboyance of Philip Veritzen's manner, the theatricalism of his reply to my request that he listen to me for a minute or two, were so repellent to me that, for a shuddering second, I felt as if I could not go on with the supreme effort for Noel and Mary, which I had nerved myself to make. Then the realization that the whole future of the two young people might be determined by the result of this interview, steeled my courage, and I broke into rapid, impassioned speech, ignoring his declaration that he could listen to me "forever."

"I cannot understand you," I said, vehemently. "You always have seemed to me the kindliest, most chivalrous of men, and yet, in this one thing you are so cruel, so unjust. You are letting it obsess you so that it is changing you almost beyond the recognition of those who—who care for you—"

A Humiliating Breakdown

"Those who care for me?" he said tensely. "Do you mean?"—but I swept on unheeding the interruption.

"I had hoped—oh! so much—that this blessed Christmastide would soften your anger, would make you see how close to a breakdown Noel is. It is horrible, it is monstrous, that a boy so tenderly reared, so accustomed to everything you could give him in the days when you loved him, should be—should be—oh! I cannot bear that you should be so—so—"

To my horror, I found my voice breaking, and with the taste of salt upon my lips realized that tears must be running down my cheeks. I had overestimated my strength, and I knew that I never could finish my appeal to Philip Veritzen without a breakdown, humiliating to the last degree.

Mr. Veritzen sprang to his feet, his brilliant eyes flaming, and bending over me, put a tender, yet compelling, hand upon my shoulder, as I shrank back against the cushions. My heart was hot with bitterness against my own weakness. This, then, was all I had accomplished, to invite Philip Veritzen's compassion for myself, to encourage his sounding of the personal note, which I had been avoiding for so long, while failing to advance the cause of Noel and Mary one whit.

But what were these words to which I was listening? I could hardly believe that I heard him aright.

"You have won, Heart of Gold! I never dreamed that it mattered so much to you what I did. You have made me the happiest—Send for Noel and Mary now—and I will prove to you—tell me, are you all right?"

There was sudden alarmed solicitude in his voice, and I made a valiant effort to fight off the wave of dizziness which seemed rising to engulf me, and the effects of which he must have seen in my face.

"I-am-perfectly all right," I said, finding difficulty in articulating the words. "If you will ring for Katie, please—the first button to the right of that desk, she will tell Noel and Mary to come here."

He moved toward the desk I had indicated, and pushed the button which would summon Katie.

Katie appeared promptly, and I bade her send "Miss Mary and Mr. Noel" to me at once.

"Sure. I bring dem qveeck; dey right close by," she said, and it was less than a minute before Noel and Mary entered, his hand resting possessively upon her arm. He started violently as he saw his father, his face stiffened and, releasing Mary's arm, he stepped quickly in front of her, his head thrown back defiantly, as if he would defend her against his father and all the world.

"A Remorseful Man"

I looked fearfully at Philip Veritzen, expecting to see his face darkened and angry. There was a bitter expression around his mouth, certainly, but through the bitterness like a poinard thrust, was a look of yearning, and all at once I was certain of what I had surmised.

He had been fighting himself as well as his son and Mary. Beneath the cruelty, the actual persecution of which he had been guilty, his love for his boy, his hungering loneliness for him, had been clamoring insistently for utterance, but had been ruthlessly silenced by the pride, the obstinacy and the obsession of a royal marriage for Noel, which had amounted almost to madness.

But even this anticipation did not prepare me for the passionate humility with which Philip Veritzen spoke.

"My boy," he said huskily, "I a... Christmas night, and I am a lonely —and—remorseful man. W... you and Mary forgive me."
